WEEK 2: REFLECTION

I learned how to utilize HTML5 elements and attributes to develop a webpage that is organized, functional, and creative. One of the challenges I encountered was properly applying semantic elements and arranging them to make the webpage both attractive and well-structured. To overcome this, I tested the webpage in the browser and identified areas that needed correction. This process helped me improve my skills in web design and in building a better semantic structure.