WEEK 5: REFLECTION

I gained knowledge of the Bootstrap grid system and its responsive components, as well as various Bootstrap components and utilities that can enhance a webpage. The challenge I encountered was selecting a suitable and compatible Bootstrap design for my website.

To address this, I experimented with different components and previewed how they appeared on my webpage, making adjustments to the layout and styling until it aligned with the overall design. As a result, I was able to make my webpage more responsive and organized through the effective use of the Bootstrap grid system and its components
